CDC CHILDREN ENJOY VIRTUAL STORY TIME

The Child Development Center has regular Zoom meetings with our children, students, and families where they read books, listen to music, and dance. They have a private YouTube channel where they can upload the story readings for the families.

COUNSELING UPDATE

Since the online transition, 96% of our students accessed Canvas. The counseling department reached out to the 4% or 365 students who did not access canvas. The goal was to connect with all 365 students, discuss their current situation, inform them of their options, and provide them with the student support resources necessary to succeed. In addition, the counselors held 707 online academic counseling sessions from March 23 to April 3.

Below are comments from students about their experiences when they accessed the Counseling Live Help Sessions:

"I would rate this session 10 out of 10. Dr. Erica Johnson was so caring and nice. She helped and answered all of my question even though it's already past the Online Counseling hours. I would highly recommend Dr. Erica Johnson."

"Courtney was BEYOND helpful! I know she had other people waiting to talk to her, but she still helped me deal with a sever bout of anxiety. She spoke to me with such compassion, truly helping me get out of my worst case scenario thoughts. Finally, as if she hadn't already done enough, she informed me about some of the other resources available to students. I am so grateful for all the ways CCC supports its students. THANK YOU!"

COMMENCEMENT UPDATE

If safe to do so, a commencement ceremony will be held later this year to celebrate the December 2019 and May 2020 graduates. In the meantime, the outreach team is planning a virtual end-of-the-semester celebration with a special video that will premiere on May 22. This is not taking the place of commencement. The video will highlight pictures of our dedicated graduates who persevered throughout this challenging semester.
