Career Technical Education

California's newest community college!

On July 20, 2015, the California Community Colleges Board of Governors voted unanimously to recognize Clovis Community College as the 113th campus of California's community college system. The campus opened in 2007 on 111 acres, first known as the Willow International Center, then Clovis Community College Center, and, now, Clovis Community College.

Clovis Community College also offers classes at the Herndon Campus located at Peach and Herndon Avenues, which is four miles from the main campus.

Clovis Community College serves nearly 9,000 students in California's heartland and joins Fresno City College and Reedley College as part of State Center Community College District, one of the state's largest community college districts serving over 46,000 students.
